Re Bureau airtel to Albany, et al, 9/8/69.

The Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) informant in the Denver Division who is in the best position to oppose the Black Panther Party (BPP) position on community control of local police is DN [REDACTED]. This informant is to be elected to the steering committee of the University of Colorado (CU) chapter in the very near future and has had good relations with the chapter members in the Denver area. He is being versed on the nature of the dispute and instructed to intelligently seize opportunities to voice opposition to the BPP position and thereby cause a rift between the two organizations.

It is to be noted, however, as set forth in Denver airtel dated 8/26/69 that the rift is not presently observable in the Denver area since cooperation between SDS and the BPP has occurred since the "Guardian" article and since the Denver BPP has been experiencing large organizational problems which have made them relatively ineffective at this time.

The Bureau has been advised previously that since July, 1969, the BPP has been taken over by an out-of-town group mainly from BPP headquarters, Berkeley, California. The local members of the BPP have either resigned, or been expelled or suspended. DN [REDACTED] is the only local Black Re Bureau letter to Denver, dated 9/5/69.

The following letter has been composed for transmittal to "The Black Panther," the BPP publication, upon approval by the Bureau. If approved, Denver will place it on commercially available typing paper such as college students use and will type it using a manually operated typewriter. It is felt that the usual four letter words found in most SDS expressions can be left out on the theory that the letter could be coming from some sincere college student member of SDS who is not part of the obscenity-using, hard-core group in SDS. Sorry we haven't registered sooner our disgust at the stab in the back you fair weather friends gave us in the August issue of the "Guardian," but we have been occupied with planning and carrying out revolutionary action - which is more than we can say for your group here in Denver. There are a lot of us in SDS in the Denver-Boulder area, especially in the Denver Collective, who take exception to, and outright resent, being called fascists and nazis, especially by representatives of a fellow minority group which is supposed to have the same long-range goals as we do.

The disagreement which brought on the unwarranted attack relates only to tactics and should never have been made public. It was strickly (purposely misspelled) an internal matter to be ironed out by the leadership of the two organizations, and as far as the dispute goes, there is much to be said for our position that control of white communities by white pigs only will end up increasing white supremacy.

If we are right, neither you nor we want this. The point is, you should never have made a national issue of it, and in doing so, have driven a large wedge between cooperative efforts of both bodies.

If you are sincere in your revolutionary goals as they have been stated to us, make an effort to publicly bridge this chasm you have dug - or else ~~step~~ aside and let some truly dedicated people get the revolutionary job done.

This letter can't be said to be an official statement of SDS either nationally or regionally; therefore, it will not bear our signatures, but you can bet your ass it expresses the private and group feelings on the matter in this part of the country.

All power to the people.

The recommendation made in reairtel that a letter over the signature of [REDACTED] to the Black Panther Party (BPP) in Denver complaining of the "stab in the back" given Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) by the Black Panthers is not being approved.

You should, however, promptly submit a proposed letter which could be directed to the editor of "The Black Panther," the BPP publication, in San Francisco and signed merely SDS, Denver, and written in such a vein that it could be from SDS in Denver complaining of Black Panther criticism of SDS. Following approval by the Bureau, this letter should be sent anonymously to the offices of this publication in San Francisco.

NOTE: Field offices have been canvassed as to what action could be taken to widen a split between SDS and the BPP. By reairtel, Denver suggested a letter be sent to the BPP in Denver over a facsimile of a signature of the Denver SDS leader complaining of the Panther's treatment of SDS. It is not felt this would have the same repercussions as a complaining letter sent directly to the offices of "The Black Panther" newspaper.

ReBuairtel 8/20/69.

Ju It is to be noted that the current relationship between members of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) and the Black Panther Party (BPP) in the Denver area appears to be much more friendly than outlined in reairtel. The Denver BPP, [REDACTED] combined with the Denver area SDS membership to hold a rally at the City-County Building, Denver, Colorado, on 8/6/69, for the purpose of demanding the freedom of Black Panther Party members HUEY NEWTON, LANDON WILLIAMS and RORY HITHE, and former SDS affiliate SUSAN MARIE PARKER. Then, on 8/8/69, the Denver SDS and BPP membership again joined forces for a rally and march in Denver to voice several additional demands. Since the BPP campaign, which the SDS refused to join, commenced in July it would appear that these two groups in the Denver area have overcome their differences on the matter.

It is also to be noted that the BPP in Denver is in a definite state of flux since the arrival of several BPP leaders from California. All of the old members of the Denver BPP have been suspended, including DN [REDACTED] (although he remains on friendly terms with the California Panthers), some of the old members have been expelled, and some have submitted their resignations. The California group in Denver, which is responsible for this situation, now runs the BPP in Denver, which consists mainly of young black sympathizers, and apparently has no formal membership at this time. There is some indication that without the support of the old members who were the black militants in the Denver area the BPP in Denver may suffer a severe setback or even extinction.

Denver is doubtful that a counterintelligence maneuver directed at the dispute arising out of BPP petition campaign described in reairtel would have the desired effect; however, if the Bureau so desires a letter over the facsimile of [redacted] signature [redacted] being one of the principal leaders of SDS in the Denver area - can be prepared for mailing to [redacted]. Such letter would indicate withdrawal of support of SDS in the Denver area for Denver BPP activities due to the "stab in the back" given SDS by the Panthers when the Panthers indicated that the SDS were national socialists who were attempting to dictate to the Panthers, as per the recent article in the "Guardian." Such a letter, to be effective, would have to be mailed very soon since the "Guardian" article has been in print for ten days already.

Denver sources and informants reporting on SDS who are presently in the Denver area during summer vacation are not at this time in a sufficiently influential position to spread dissension among SDS membership regarding the BPP statements.

Reurlet 7/23/69 captioned as above and urtel 7/28/69 captioned "Students for a Democratic Society, IS-SDS."

Referenced letter states that due to campus inactivity, your office has developed no information relative to New Left activities on college campuses in the Denver area during the summer and, therefore, the opportunities for counterintelligence activity have been limited. Referenced teletype, however, advises that the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) sponsored a rally on the campus of the University of Colorado on 7/28/69 following which individuals invaded a building leased by the Institute for Defense Analysis and disrupted its activities. It is apparent that this rally was not spontaneous and must have been in the planning stage for some time.

From the foregoing it does not appear that the Agent to whom this program is assigned has sufficiently grasped its aims and objectives. The objectives of the program are not limited to college campuses as seems to be the point stressed in the referenced letter. This program's objectives are to seek out and neutralize the New Left not only on college campuses but elsewhere as well. The fact that colleges are on a summer schedule is not sufficient reason to curtail your efforts to successfully implement the program.

You will be expected to thoroughly review this program in your Division to assure that its objectives are fully known to the Agent to whom it is assigned. The Agent handling it will be expected to pursue it aggressively and with imagination to insure that opportunities for neutralizing the New Left, whether it be on or off campus, are not missed. He should seek to develop advance information regarding rallies and similar activities and devise counterintelligence measures where appropriate to negate the plans of the New Left.

A lackadaisical attitude toward this program will not be tolerated. Your office will be expected to devote more attention to it in the future.

ReBulet to Denver dated 5/13/69, and Denver letter to Bureau 4/29/69.

The "Rocky Mountain News," Denver daily newspaper, in an article captioned "Allott Rips SDS Bomb, Sex Documents," dated April 30, 1969, reported that Senator GORDON ALLOTT, Republican of Colorado, charged that Students for a Democratic Society handed out documents at a recent Denver East High School basketball game telling students "how to make bombs and other explosives," and also distributed a pamphlet entitled "Sex Relationship Inventory." It appears that this is the identical pamphlet referred to in Denver letter to Bureau April 29, 1969.

In view of the fact that this has been given publicity at Denver, it does not appear that [REDACTED] of the "Denver Post" should be contacted.

Denver has advised Bureau concerning Senator ALLOTT's newspaper article by report captioned "UNSUBS; Pamphlets Concerning the Making of Explosives Distributed by Students for a Democratic Society, East High School, Denver, Colorado, ARL," dated May 9, 1969.

In view of this, Denver feels no further action should be taken, UACB.

MOLOTOV COCKTAIL- A BOTTLE IS FILLED WITH $\frac{2}{3}$ GAS AND $\frac{1}{3}$ OIL. A FUSE IS INSERTED AND THE BOTTLE CORKED. THE FUSE IS LIGHTED AND THE BOTTLE HURLED AT OBJECTIVE. ON BREAKING THE CONTENTS WILL IGNITE. THE ENEMY WILL BE UNABLE TO EXTINGUISH IT WITH WATER.

TO SET A FIRE

HAND GRENADES:

A LIGHTED CIGARETTE IS PLACED IN A BOOK OF MATCHES AND LEFT ON COMBUSTIBLE MATERIAL.

A FUSE OF 5 OR 6 SECONDS LENGTH IS INSERTED INTO A CAN FILLED WITH DYNAMITE AND SCRAPS OF IRON, NAILS, SCREWS, ETC.

BANGALORE TORPEDO:

CONSISTS OF LENGTHS OF PIPE FILLED WITH STICKS OF DYNAMITE, SEALED AT THE ENDS, AND JOINED IN THE MIDDLE BY COUPLINGS THUS PERMITTING THE TORPEDO TO BE OF VARYING LENGTHS. THE CAP ON ONE END HAS A HOLE WHICH PERMITS INSERTION OF FUSE AND DETONATOR.

THESE TORPEDOES ARE VERY EFFECTIVELY USED IN DESTROYING CONCRETE COLUMNS, CULVERTS, ETC.

THIS TORPEDO IS USED TO DESTROY WALLS, RAMPARTS, LARGE WOODEN OR IRON DOORS.

TO SABOTAGE AUTOMOBILES:

NAILS, TACKS, CLAMPS, ETC., ARE SPREAD ON THE STREETS AND ROADS AT NIGHT TO IMPEDE TRAFFIC. THEY SHOULD BE BLACK IN COLOR SO AS NOT TO REFLECT LIGHT.

A PIECE OF CORD, SOAKED IN GASOLINE OR ALCOHOL, IS TIED AROUND THE BOTTLE AND IGNITED WHICH WILL CUT THE BOTTLE IN TWO. THE BOTTOM PART OF THE BOTTLE IS THEN FILLED WITH DYNAMITE, A FUSED DETONATOR IS INSERTED INTO THE DYNAMITE AND THE BOTTLE SEALED. IT IS PLACED ON WHATEVER IS TO BE DAMAGED AND SECURED IN ANY APPROPRIATE MANNER. WHEN IT EXPLODES THERE WILL BE A PERFORATION UP TO SIX INCHES WITH THE DIAMETER OF THE HOLE DEPENDENT ON THE CONE OF THE BOTTLE.

DESTRUCTION OF IRON- AND STEEL BEAMS:

THE SETTING OF EXPLOSIVE CHARGES TO BLOW UP COLUMNS OR STEEL BEAMS IS CLEARLY EXPLAINED IN THESE DIAGRAMS.

In a revolutionary situation some materials are available and some must be made. The following is a series of formulas and techniques for explosive and incendiary devices.

THERMITE: creates an extremely hot flame, can melt through steel such as railroads, gas tanks and oil storage tanks. Mix 50% iron oxide and 50% powdered aluminium. Requires high temperature for ignition. For this gun powder or magnesium ribbon may be used. Iron oxide is simply rust and may be filed from rusty iron or steel. Aluminium may be filed or ground into a powder, or is sometimes available in art supply stores.

SPONTANEOUS COMBUSTION: Moisten rags with a mixture of 30% turpentine and 70% linseed oil. To ignite pour on any commercial paint dryer. Fire starts as dryer evaporates.

FULMINATE OF MERCURY: A high explosive may be packed into a cartridge case to make a blasting cap. 25% ethyl alcohol, 25% nitric acid, 50% mercury. First mix alcohol & nitric acid, then pour on mercury. Use very small volumes, no mixing with mercury is necessary. What is left, a powder is the explosive. Powdered copper or lead may be used but will produce a weaker explosive.

DYNAMITE: Mix Sodium nitrate or ammonium nitrate 80% with 20% nitro glycerin. Ammonium nitrate is a commercial fertilizer.

PLASTIC EXPLOSIVE: 60-70% ground dynamite mixed with 30-40% putty. Use blasting cap.

NITRO GLYCERIN: Use 100% nitric acid, if necessary distill to reach 100% vol. To make nitric acid mix 50% sodium nitrate and 50% sulfuric acid and distill. Sulfuric acid is available in auto supply shops for filling new batteries. Buy glycerin in drug stores. Mix nitric acid and sulfuric acid and glycerin. Filter through caustic soda to neutralize. Put caustic soda on a screen and pour nitro GENTLY through into beaker.

Ammonium nitrate fuel oil explosive:
Ammonium nitrate of 8/20 mesh can be detonated in holes 3 inches or larger in diameter when mixed with no. 2 fuel oil. Use blasting cap.

GUN COTTON: Cut cellophane, as from cigarette packs, into bits. Mix with nitric acid then add sulphuric acid and pour through caustic soda or starch on screen to neutralize. For less strength use more cellophane. Use blasting cap.

POTASSIUM CHLORATE: For use in incendiary time Bomb. Potassium chlorate (KClO_3) is available in chemical supply houses, but not drug stores. It would not be advisable to buy this chemical in a revolutionary situation. However the process for making it as described below requires the use of other chemicals which would not be of a suspicious nature and are readily available. Also described is the procedure for preparing the primary ingredient for KClO_3 (which is Potassium Chloride, KCl).

Required equipment for preparation of KClO_3

- 1 automobile battery, 6 Or 12 cells
- 2 carbon rods (from dry cell batteries)
- 1 set of battery cables and clamps
- 1 non-metal (glass or enamel lined) pot
- 1 pound table salt (non-iodized)
- 1 pound KCl (Potassium Chloride) If not avail see preparation instructions.
- 1 hot plate or gas or electric stove
- 1 wooden spoon or paint paddle for stirring.

Fill pot with water and dissolve as much table salt as possible in the water until a nearly saturated solution is obtained. Heat the solution but do not boil. Add as much salt as will dissolve but no more. Connect the battery to the carbon electrodes and insert both electrodes into the hot salt solution. Do not immerse the cables and do not boil the solution. Do not breathe the gasses being given off by one or both electrodes, but rather stir the solution vigorously. As the reaction proceeds add small amounts of KCl crystals or KCl solution to the hot salt solution. You should see a finely divided solid come out of solution and settle to the bottom. Turn off heat and allow the solution to cool. As the solution cools, more and more solid KClO_3 should settle out of solution. The solid KClO_3 may be filtered out through a very fine cloth or better yet coffee filter paper. Work with plenty of ventilation as one of the gasses given off is poisonous and the other explosive, but both are not in heavy concentrations and this a very safe reaction with a minimum of care.

If KCl is not available a KCl solution may be prepared by treating KOH (Potassium Hydroxide or Potash or sometimes called caustic Potash) with HCl (Hydrochloric acid).
This leaves KCl in solution with water and this solution may be added as KCl in place of commercially available crystals. There would be no questions asked if a person wanted to buy KOH, HCl or KCl. All the other ingredients are available at home. As is probably apparent, this procedure is a bit troublesome for a non-chemist and since it would be much easier to buy prepared KClO_3 from a chemical supply house the above procedure should be used only when it is felt that direct purchase would be unadvis-able or when it is found that it may not be purchased through normal channels.

Explosives may always be purchased through underground or illicit sources or on the black market. KClO_3 is not an explosive of itself and is easily stored. It is an ingredient in some explosives and reacts with other elements in violent reactions.

Gun Powder may be purchased in sporting goods stores. Military powder is the most powerful.

That the board of regents moving on sds is by no means "winning." The fact that opportunistic members of the board (e.g. guess who?) are saying that there is still some chance to "work through channels" toward a "reconsideration" of the "hasty action of the Incomplete Board of Regents" does not alter the political position of the board vis-a-vis sds. Clearly, what everyone sees is political conflict between the rapidly growing student movement and an institution of the State.

That everyone sees this conflict certainly does not mean, however, that everyone sees it from the same perspective. The perspective that sds members have is, of course, that of the movement we are building with other oppressed peoples against the existing order and towards a society structured around rational decisions and human aspirations rather than the logic of profit and corrupt political machines.

More is involved here than simply forming a coalition around the issue of sds affiliation. Support of that issue is possible just from the perspective of civil liberties. An outright affirmation of the movement is not, of course, characteristic of civil libertarians. And it is true that when such affirmation is made it necessarily remains wholly abstract, for it is bound to be a statement about the movement from the outside.

This, then is the crucial distinction for everyone concerned about the issues. There are single-issue perspectives on coalition and there are perspectives of commitment and principle. Our position differs from civil libertarians' not only in being based on the concrete perspective of the movement for change in American society, but also in our ability to use this perspective to analyse, from the inside, the forces acting to advance and retard the present struggles.

Let us be clear about one thing. The CU chapter of sds as part of a national movement and the board of regents as representative of the power of the State have not collided because of civil liberties or student power. Certainly, those things are at stake here, but those of us in the movement do not believe our struggle can be defined in those terms. We affirm as principle something that all of the regents have consciously decided. It is that our movement -- together with movements of Afro-Americans, Chicanos, people of the Third World, white working people, i.e., the exploited people as a whole -- must inevitably call into question the root sources of political power as wielded by the regents, and the people in whose interest such power is used.

In other words, there is a real conflict between the power structure that the regents here represent and the movement to 'abolish the present state of affairs'. That there exists such a real conflict means that the situation we face is only the beginning of a concerted attempt to repress the movement. Since we affirm peoples' right to participate in the decisions that affect their lives, such repression must not and shall not go unopposed. This struggle for the right to freedom from unjust political repression, however, will not prosper if we do not analyze from the inside the mechanism of repression itself.

The internal logic of the regents decision is that, in their attempt at repression, the regents will necessarily define that repression in their own terms. The specific political and psychological factors motivating the regents will necessarily be dealt with in further articles. The point is that the regents see the movement as a threat to the institutions they control and represent. But now they face a contradiction: they attempt to repress the movement, but one of the institutions they control, the University, confers legitimacy to sds. That this legitimacy, that of "affiliation" may appear to some as vague, and next to meaningless, does not alter the fact that denial of legitimacy to sds as they define it is the essential first step the regents must take in their repressive use of their power. It is in this sense that affiliation is an important issue. The regents must not succeed.

MINIMUM DEFINITION OF REVOLUTIONARY ORGANIZATIONS

SINCE the only purpose of a revolutionary organization is the abolition of all existing classes in a way that does not bring about a new division of society, we consider any organization as revolutionary which purposefully, meaningfully, pursues the international realization of the absolute power of the Workers' Councils. That power has been outlined in the experience of the proletarian revolutions of this century — Russia 1905, Kronstadt 1921, Asturias 1934, Spanish revolution 1936. It is power without mediators.

Such an organization makes a unitary critique of the world, or is nothing. By unitary critique is understood a global, a total critique of all geographic areas where various forms of separate socio-economic powers exist, as well as a critique of all aspects of life.

Such an organization sees the beginning and end of its own program in the complete decolonization, the complete liberation of daily life. It aims not at the self-management, the autogestion by the masses of the existing world, but at the uninterrupted transformation of this world.

Such an organization embodies the radical critique of political economy, the transcendence of commodity and wage-labor. It refuses to reproduce within itself any of the hierarchical conditions prevailing in the world that dominates us. The only limit to participating in its total democracy is that each member recognize and appropriate for himself the coherence of its critique. The coherence has to be both in the critical theory and in the relationship between the theory and practical activity. The aim is theoretico-practice. A revolutionary organization radically criticizes every ideology as separate power of ideas and as ideas of separate power.* It is at the same time the negation of any remains of religion and of the prevailing social spectacle which, from news-media to mass culture, monopolizes all communication between men around a unilateral reception by men of the images of their alienated activity. The organization dissolves any "revolutionary ideology" by revealing it to be the sign of the failure of the revolutionary project, as the private property of new specialists of power, as the imposture of a new representation which erects itself above the real proletarianized life.

The category of totality, of the global critique, is the last judgement of the revolutionary organization, so the organization is, in the end, a critique of politics: it must aim explicitly through its victory at the dissolution of itself as a separate organization.

Re San Antonio letter to Bureau dated 2/5/69.

Reference is made to the report of SA [REDACTED] dated 10/31/68 at Denver, captioned "STUDENTS FOR A DEMOCRATIC SOCIETY, IS - SDS; SEDITION," a copy of which was furnished to the San Antonio Office for its information.

It is noted that page 7 of rerep reflects that when the SDS obtained permission to have their National Council meeting at the University of Colorado (CU) in October, 1968, the SDS agreed with CU authorities to make all their sessions open to the press and the public. Rerep reflects that after they obtained permission from CU to hold their national convention there, they refused to allow various individuals from the press to take photographs of their sessions and would not allow TV cameras on the premises.

Page 8 of rerep reflects the obscenity by various members of the SDS at the national convention and page 9 reflects the fighting which occurred between the members of the SDS and members of the press.

The Denver Office has no information that the SDS caused any physical damage to CU or that they did not pay any debts incurred; however, in view of the above, the University of Texas authorities should be made aware of the obscene and barbaric actions of the members of SDS at the October, 1968, convention at CU which certainly does not offer any educational value to an institution of higher learning.

Former Leftist Speaks At CU

By BILL BRAND
Daily Camera Staff

It is a long way politically from membership in the Progressive Labor Party to a consultant post with the House Un-American Activities Committee.

But, said Phillip A. Luce Monday night at Macky Auditorium, it was worth the trip.

The former left winger, who renounced Communism in 1965 in favor of the right wing establishment, warned CU students that a vocal minority of new leftists were jeopardizing their own rights as students.

Students, he said, should police their own campuses.

"I say student problems are exactly that," Luce said. "If you don't appreciate students breaking up your classes, you simply remove those students from the classroom."

If students do not solve their own problems, he added, in the long run the problems will be solved by university regents, by legislatures and by voters. And such solutions, he said, would not necessarily be in the best interests of any students.

Luce appeared at CU as a guest of the W. F. Dyde Forum, a University organization named for a former CU vice-president. Luce is the author of Road To Revolution, The New Left and An Intelligent Student's Guide to Survival.

Currently he is a contributor to several conservative publications. His articles have also appeared in such publications as Readers' Digest and National Review.

College students, Luce urged, must become aware of the menace on the left. There is on college campuses a "new McCarthyism," he suggested.

Repression of ideas is very much present, he said. But it is repression not from the right, not from state legislatures, but instead from a small group of radicals.

As an illustration, Luce described a talk he made on a California campus recently, where members of the Students for a Democratic Society sat in the front row and not only refused to listen to him but kept others from listening by making loud noises and shouting.

"I don't object to SDS members thinking as they do," Luce said. "I don't object to them propagandizing campuses. What I do object to is SDS members attempting to prevent others from expressing their views."

SDS members, he said, certainly have rights under the first amendment, but so do others.

"I can understand that a young person can feel so outraged at the Vietnamese war that he could personally refuse to fight," the speaker said. "I can even understand that he has a right to petition and picket against the war."

His objections come, though, when that same young person interferes with others' rights to fight in the war or to work for Dow Chemical.

"I am non-non-violent," Luce explained, "and if I want to go to work for Dow and you are sitting in the door, something's going to happen."

Extra-legal actions on the part of the new left, he said, are leading the extreme right toward strong totalitarian moves.

And, Luce cautioned, although the federal government up until this point has been "almost nice" to the new left, things could change.

The government could decide that enough is enough, he said. "And if you doubt that the government would move against you," he advised leftists in the audience, "you haven't read your history."

Luce suggested that they look at what President Woodrow Wilson, when he was attorney general, did to the I. W. W. "He completely and totally destroyed it," the former radical pointed out.

Continuing to debunk the new left movement, the speaker said new leftists should read Lenin, who described non-Communist radicals as "bourgeoisie revolutionaries," and such leftist movements as "infantile leftism."

Many young people today, Luce said, have an opinion on everything and they will espouse their opinions on a drop of comment.

Luce emphasized that he doesn't mind this, but what he does mind is these same young people enforcing their opinions on him.

He said that the problem with the new left is that it has been unable to convert a majority to its views, and that the accompanying frustration has built and built until it becomes impossible for the left to act in a democratic manner.

"If those SDS members who speak so much for total destruction would only participate, they really could change our society," the speaker said.

Luce generally took a softer line at CU Monday night than he has in his books and magazine articles.

He did spend several minutes criticizing Youth International Party spokesman Jerry Rubin and Black Panther information minister Eldridge Cleaver.

He reported that while speaking recently at a West Coast campus, Rubin said in effect private property should be abolished.

Yet after the speech, Luce alleged, Rubin became embroiled in an argument when he refused to give a female fan an article of his clothing.

"It's mine," Luce quoted Rubin.

On Cleaver, Luce explained that he always does his best to harass Cleaver. "I refuse to believe Eldridge is real," Luce said.

White audiences who sit and listen to Cleaver criticize them are masochistic, he said.

He pointed out that far from being a mass movement, the Black Panthers claim just 1,800 members, 1,000 of them in Oakland, Calif.

Cleaver is a joke, Luce said.

Summing up, he pointed out that problems on campus and problems generally with the new left will continue until a majority of students start insisting on their rights.

He advised students not to censor SDS members, to let them have their place in the free market place of ideas. "I'm convinced that their ideas won't wear."

The record of the new left is a record of failure, he said.

In a revolutionary situation some materials are available and some must be made. The following is a series of formulas and techniques for explosive and incendiary devices.

THERMITE: creates an extremely hot flame, can melt through steel such as railroads, gas tanks and oil storage tanks. Mix 50% iron oxide and 50% powdered aluminum. Requires high temperature for ignition. For this gun powder or magnesium ribbon may be used. Iron oxide is simply rust and may be filed from rusty iron or steel. Aluminum may be filed or ground into a powder, or is sometimes available in art supply stores.

SPONTANEOUS COMBUSTION: Moisten rags with a mixture of 30% turpentine and 70% linseed oil. To ignite pour on any commercial paint dryer. Fire starts as dryer evaporates.

FULMINE OF MERCURY: A high explosive may be packed into a cartridge case to make a blasting cap. 25% ethyl alcohol, 25% nitric acid, 50% mercury. First mix alcohol and nitric acid, then pour on mercury. Use very small volumes, no mixing with mercury is necessary. What is left, a powder is the explosive. Powdered copper or lead may be used but will produce a weaker explosive.

DYNAMITE: Mix Sodium nitrate or ammonium nitrate 80% with 20% nitro glycerin. Ammonium nitrate is a commercial fertilizer.

PLASTIC EXPLOSIVE: 60-70% ground dynamite mixed with 30-40% putty. Use blasting cap.

NITRO GLYCERIN: Use 100% nitric acid, if necessary distill to reach 100% level. To make nitric acid mix 50% sodium nitrate and 50% sulfuric acid and distill. Sulfuric acid is available in auto supply shops for filling new batteries. Buy glycerin in drug stores. Mix nitric acid and sulfuric acid and glycerin. Filter through caustic soda to neutralize. Put caustic soda on a screen and pour nitroGENTLY through into beaker.

Ammonium nitrate fuel oil explosive: Ammonium nitrate of 8/20 mesh can be detonated in holes 3 inches or larger in diameter when mixed with no. 2 fuel oil. Use blasting cap.

GUN COTTON: Cut cellophane, as from cigarette packs, into bits. Mix with nitric acid then add sulphuric acid and pour through caustic soda or starch on screen to neutralize. For less strength use more cellophane. Use blasting cap.

POTASSIUM CHLORATE: For use in incendiary time Bomb. Potassium chlorate ($KClO_3$) is available in chemical supply houses, but not drug stores. It would not be advisable to buy this chemical in a revolutionary situation. However the process for making it as described below requires the use of other chemicals which would not be of a suspicious nature and are readily available. Also described is the procedure for preparing the primary ingredient for $KClO_3$ (which is Potassium Chloride, KCl).

Required equipment for preparation of $KClO_3$
1 automobile battery, 6 Or 12 volts
2 carbon rods (from dry cell batteries)
1 set of battery cables and clamps
1 non-metal (glass or enamel lined) pot
1 pound table salt (non-iodized)
1 pound KCl (Potassium Chloride) If not avail see preparation instructions.
1 hot plate or gas or electric stove
1 wooden spoon or paint paddle for stirring
Fill pot with water and dissolve as much table salt as possible in the water until a nearly saturated solution is obtained. Heat the solution but do not boil. Add as much salt as will dissolve but no more. Connect the battery to the carbon electrodes and insert both electrodes into the hot salt solution. Do not immerse the cables and do not boil the solution. Do not breathe the gasses being given off by one or both electrodes, but rather stir the solution vigorously. As the reaction proceeds small amounts of KCl crystals or KCl solution to the hot salt solution. You should see a finely divided solid come out of solution and settle to the bottom. Turn off heat and allow the solution to cool. As the solution cools, more and more solid $KClO_3$ should settle out of solution. The solid $KClO_3$ may be filtered out through a very fine cloth or better yet coffee filter paper. Work with plenty of ventilation as one of the gasses given off is poisonous and the other explosive, but both are not in heavy concentrations and this a very safe reaction with a minimum of care. If KCl is not available a KCl solution may be prepared by treating KOH (Potassium Hydroxide or Potash or sometimes called caustic Potash) with HCl (Hydrochloric acid). This leaves KCl in solution with water and this solution may be added as KCl in place of commercially available crystals. There would be no questions asked if a person wanted to buy KOH, HCL or KCl. All the other ingredients are available at home. As is probably apparent, this procedure is a bit troublesome for a non-chemist and since it would be much easier to buy prepared KClO_3 from a chemical supply house the above procedure should be used only when it is felt that direct purchase would be unadvisable or when it is found that it may not be purchased through normal channels. Explosives may always be purchased through underground or illicit sources or on the black market. KClO_3 is not an explosive of itself and is easily stored. It is an ingredient in some explosives and reacts with other elements in violent reactions. Gun Powder may be purchased in sporting goods stores. Military powder is the most powerful.

ReBulet to Denver dated 10/14/68.

Enclosed is a Xerox copy of an article appearing in the "Denver Post," daily newspaper, dated October 16, 1968, which is a review of the National Convention of the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) held at Boulder, Colorado, the previous weekend. This article sets out the complete immorality on the part of members of the SDS and, having been published in the "Denver Post," had widespread publicity in the Rocky Mountain area. It is felt that this article, if widely read throughout the country, would alert people to the immoral attitudes and actions of members of the SDS.

This article is being furnished to the Bureau for any action they may deem necessary to further its publicity.

SIDS Is Marxist Group Trying for Revolution

By LAWRENCE G. WEISS, Denver Post Editorial Writer

THE conference of the Students for a Democratic Society in Boulder last weekend was one of the most open meetings ever held by a revolutionary movement.

Any citizen of Colorado — provided he left his camera and tape recorder at home — was free to sit in and find out what SDS is like and what it plans to do to shake up and topple the capitalist system.

Scores of visitors took advantage of the opportunity and heard the revolutionary talk first hand. It was often vague, confused and highly theoretical talk, but the revolutionary intent was unmistakable.

SDS is, in fact, a loose coalition of young revolutionaries. Not all of them are students, but most of them are working toward revolution — or talking about it — from the college campuses.

THE coalition has a heavy Marxist orientation. Most of the college chapter representatives at the Boulder conference appeared to agree that the troubles of the world are rooted in the capitalist system and the "imperialism" they say is necessary to sustain the capitalist system.

To say that SDS has a Marxist orientation — that its members are profoundly influenced by the thinking of the 19th century German philosopher Karl Marx — is not to say that SDS members are Communists.

Most of them reject the rigid discipline and tight organizational structure of the Communist party and the party line. They are critical of some Communist regimes abroad. Some have been disillusioned by visits to Cuba or Communist states in Eastern Europe. And a number of them charge that the students of even worse, lead human beings who live under them to repress their own natural impulses and to become dull and dehumanized. Their ideas have been influenced by the writings of the psychiatrist Theodore Reik.

They are interested not so much in politics as in the "life style" of a liberated generation. They want to develop a new "youth culture" which may have to be carried on in communes. The "culture" they have developed so far appears to involve drugs, uninhibited sex and a passionate, explosive manner of expressing themselves in an obscene vocabulary of their own. One of them sought to emphasize his views and his feelings at one plenary session of the conference by dropping his pants and exposing himself.

Some of the other SDS members are embarrassed or annoyed by the "anarchist" group, but most of them appear to take them in stride and to believe they have something important to contribute. Some of the anarchists have fought with the police at Columbia and elsewhere, and they are looked upon as the most violent group in SDS.

THE weekend conference in Boulder was an orgy of long, tedious, abstract speeches, made mostly from the trouble integrating the new members and finding them enough to do.

• Third, SDS has developed a hard-core of professionals to work for the revolution. Some of these young people have had experience in strike situations and in conflicts with the police. Some have made visits to Communist countries abroad. Some are well-schooled in revolutionary strategy and tactics. These professionals, scattered among campuses and factories throughout the nation, are now on the job working to turn the discontent which has been growing in America into revolutionary channels.

• Fourth, SDS has now turned its back completely on the social democratic philosophy on which it was founded and has committed itself firmly to Marxism. No Lenin has yet appeared to embody this Marxism in an effective party organization, but the PLP group has been thinking in those terms, and some future Lenins may come along.

• Finally, although SDS members are enemies of this system, they are also products of it. Many of them are sons and daughters of parents who accept the system and have thrived under it. They were raised in the system, often in ways that are indistinguishable from the way millions of other young people are

The SDS members who came to the sessions at the University of Colorado last weekend — and those who stayed home — represent a broad variety of political views, some of which are in a state of flux.

It is possible, however, to develop the following classification:

THE PLP GROUP — This is made up of members of the Progressive Labor Party, an organization which operates outside SDS, but whose members tend to act as a bloc within SDS. PLP has its greatest strength in the Boston, New York and San Francisco Bay areas. Many of its members work in factories part-time or full-time.

Among the SDS Marxists, the PLP people are the group that most nearly resembles the Communist party in that they tend to favor a tighter and more cohesive organization and a vigorous effort off the campus to prepare the "working class" for the revolution. They are critical of the Soviets and other European Communists but they admire the Chinese communism of Mao Tse-tung.

The PLP group tried to get the conference to endorse a new program of building alliances with "the working class," but the delegates rejected the PLP proposal. They did so partly because they feared the PLP group in Boston would control the new program, partly because they didn't like the vague terms in which the proposal was put, partly because they thought they weren't yet sure enough of their ideology to take such a step on a national basis.

THE OTHER MARXISTS — Probably the largest group in SDS is made up of Marxists who aren't organized as a bloc and who interpret Marxism in a variety of ways. The students in this group do not talk as frequently as the PLP members do about "the correct" and "incorrect" positions. They are not as concerned about Marxist orthodoxy and many of them are still groping for the answers. They tend to favor a loose organization at this stage with each local chapter embarking on its own programs when it is ready.

THE ANARCHISTS — SDS members in this group, largely from the East Village in New York City, are a small minority in the organization. The term "anarchists" may not fit them precisely, but the name they have chosen for themselves cannot be printed in this newspaper. Nor can the four-letter words which fill their speeches and conversation.

Members of this group are disdainful not only of this system, but of any other that the other revolutionaries might set up in its place. They think all systems sooner or later become repressive, and, floor microphones by serious — and largely humorless — young people talking faster than they could think. In some respects, the speeches resembled those of the Old Left during the 1930s, but there was a greater tendency to substitute four-letter words for precise expressions. The rhetoric of the New Left appears to lean even more heavily on clichés and slogans. Some faculty members at CU last weekend thought the intellectual quality of the discussions was poor.

After three days of watching, listening and questioning in Boulder, the following observations suggest themselves to this writer:

• First, that SDS has still not found itself as an organization and lacks the cohesion, at this stage, to mount a concerted drive for revolution. It is likely to thrash around for the time being, touching off scattered disturbances, but it is too divided, too uncertain and too undisciplined to be effective now on a large scale. It will, however, be troublesome on a small one.

• Second, that SDS is growing in size and influence, even though most college students are reacting to its Marxist abstractions with indifference and boredom. Speakers at the Boulder conference reported that students have been turning out in larger numbers for SDS meetings this fall and new chapters have been formed. The problem described " raised. Some of the things in the system that have driven them to radicalism have driven other young people to discontent.

THE system that produced the SDS members cannot, of course, allow them to destroy it. But it can and should listen to their complaints and try to understand their feelings. In that way the system can remain alert, not only to the danger they might pose, but also to weaknesses and injustices in the system that may cause still other young people to turn against it. The system cannot be significantly damaged by the small minority in SDS as long as it hastens the self-correction that will assure its survival.

Relet states that there is no potential for counter-intelligence action or any counterintelligence action pending in your division.

It is to be noted that the National Council of the Students for a Democratic Society is to hold a meeting at the University of Colorado from 10/12-15/68 and is to be hosted by the University of Colorado chapter of SDS. In addition, this chapter of SDS was active during the 1967-68 academic year, particularly with regard to the antiwar movement. There is every indication that this chapter will continue its protests and disruptions during the coming year.

This situation appears to offer a definite challenge to your office as regards the counterintelligence program. Neutralization of the SDS should be one of your prime objectives.

The fact that no proposals have been forthcoming from your office appears to indicate a lack of interest in implementing this program.

You should thoroughly review this matter, including your approach to the problems involved and the objectives desired. Thereafter, you will be expected to furnish specific proposals for neutralizing the SDS and the New Left in your division.

An imaginative and enthusiastic approach will be necessary if the Bureau is to realize a measure of success in combating these anarchistic forces.

NOTE: In their quarterly letter on the captioned program, Denver reported that there was no potential for counter-intelligence action in the division and there was no pending action in this program. This is in spite of a rather aggressive SDS chapter in existence at the University of Colorado.

BOULDER, COLORADO:

On October 24, 1967, the CUSDS sponsored a speech by [REDACTED] on the subject "Civil Disobedience and the Liberal Hang-Up." [REDACTED] defended civil disobedience by stating it does not cause as much disrespect for law and order as do poor laws. Among the characteristics necessary for civil disobedience, [REDACTED] listed respect for the law, even while breaking it; suffering directed to oneself; resistance aimed at the system and not at the individual; no irreparable harm; effort to compromise with others, and willingness to allow for the potentialities of the system. On protesting in general, [REDACTED] stated the key to the future lies in the opposition of the present.

The "Colorado Daily" is an independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Colorado.

According to the above-mentioned source, [REDACTED]
[REDACTED] of CUSDS.

On October 25, 1967, this same source advised that on this date approximately twenty members of CUSDS blockaded the university placement center where Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) representative, [REDACTED] was interviewing students for potential employment. The demonstrators sat on the floor and hallway leading to the Placement Bureau with arms interlocked, and refused to allow anyone to enter the office where the CIA representative was stationed. According to the source, the SDS leaders stated they wanted CIA abolished and their recruiter to get off the campus.

At a meeting of the CUSDS held October 30, 1967, it was agreed by those present that SDS members support civil disobedience as a way to fulfill their moral obligations, and that through civil disobedience, an individual can demonstrate his unwillingness to take part in those activities they disapprove of.

On April 18, 1968, Special Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation observed approximately twenty-five young adults representing CUSDS at the New Custom House, Denver, Colorado, which contains the Armed Forces Recruiting Offices and the Armed Forces Examination and Entrance Station. This group was observed milling around the hallways and entrances occupied by the above offices, and members of the group were handing out leaflets in opposition to the draft.

At approximately 8:00 a.m., on this date, uniformed officers of the Denver Police Department arrived and asked the SDS members to leave the first and second floors of the building and when they refused to do so, six individuals were arrested, including [REDACTED]

UNIVERSITY OF COLORADO
BOULDER, COLORADO:

On April 25, 1968, Special Agents of the FBI observed 35 individuals gather in front of the New Custom House in Denver, which group eventually increased to approximately 80 in number. At the direction of Assistant United States Attorney Milton C. Branch, officials of the General Services Administration locked all doors to the building and only employees and individuals having business in this building were permitted to enter. [REDACTED] was observed to call the group before him and standing on the steps of the New Custom House, told the group this was a Federal building and that the public should be allowed to enter. He asked the group if they wanted to vote to ask to be admitted to the building and if not allowed to enter, to block the door so no one else could enter. Thereafter, approximately 50 of the demonstrators marched up to the front door and asked a building guard if they could enter the building. Upon not being allowed to enter, Dr. [REDACTED] as observed taking two sets of automobile tire chains from the rear of his automobile and placing them on the doors so that they could not be opened.

Assistant United States Attorney Branch then ordered the United States Marshal to arrest [REDACTED] and three other demonstrators for disorderly conduct on Federal property.

STUDENTS FOR A DEMOCRATIC SOCIETY

The Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), as it is known today, came into being at a founding convention held at Port Huron, Michigan, in June, 1962. The SDS is an association of young people on the left and has a current program of protesting the draft, promoting a campaign for youth to develop a conscientious objector status, denouncing United States intervention in the war in Vietnam and to "radically transform" the university community, and provide for its complete control by students. Gus Hall, General Secretary, Communist Party, USA, when interviewed by a representative of United Press International in San Francisco, California, on May 14, 1965, described the SDS as a part of the "responsible left" which the Party has "going for us." At the June, 1965, SDS National Convention, an anti-communist proviso was removed from the SDS constitution. In the October 7, 1966, issue of "New Left Notes," the official publication of SDS, an SDS spokesman stated that there are some communists in SDS and they are welcome. The national headquarters of this organization, as of April 18, 1967, was located in Room 206, 1608 West Madison Street, Chicago, Illinois.

A second confidential source, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised on April 22, 1968, that no information concerning the SDS Chapter at Fort Collins, Colorado, or any of its officers has come to the attention of the Communist Party (CP) in Colorado and the CP has shown no interest in the SDS at Fort Collins, Colorado.

III. ACTIVITIES OF SDS CHAPTER ON CSU CAMPUS, FORT COLLINS, COLORADO

On April 22, 1968, the first confidential source advised that since the beginning of the school year 1967- 1968, there has been only one reported demonstration by the CSU Chapter, that being an anti-war protest at a Navy-Marine and Air Force recruiting booth on the campus and the organization received only spot coverage of its activities in the campus newspaper, "The Collegian."

Source further advised on April 22, 1968, that the SDS Chapter on CSU Campus has apparently merged into a new group, Peace Action Now Committee (PANC), which organization was established on CSU campus in February, 1968, by membership of approximately 80 CSU students, 5 CSU professors and 3 or 4 town people for the purpose of demonstrating opposition to the war in Viet Nam and disbelief in the war policies of the administration.

According to the first confidential source PANC during February and March, 1968, held weekly silent peace vigils at the Student Center Plaza and one Peace March from CSU campus to downtown Fort Collins on March 4, 1968. Source advised that on February 7, 1968, the first silent peace vigil was heckled by students who threw eggs and water balloons but the group offered neither vocal nor physical opposition to this action. Source advised that no violence or harassment of the silent peace vigil occurred thereafter. Source related that the Peace March which was held March 4, 1968, under sponsorship of PANC consisted of approximately five hundred students and supporters marched from CSU campus to downtown Ft. Collins where they engaged in speeches and demonstration against U. S. participation in the Viet Nam war.

The March 5, 1968, issue of the "Denver Post", a daily newspaper at Denver, Colorado, reported that approximately 50 high-school age youths heckled the marchers and on one occasion laid down in front of the marchers in the street; however, the Police Department dispersed them with Mace, allowing the demonstrators to march. An individual identified as [redacted] drove a large truck near the demonstrators and blew his horn during the demonstration. Another man, later identified as [redacted] climbed into the truck and attacked [redacted]. The Police Department separated these men and [redacted] was arrested. [redacted] was arrested by the Fort Collins Police Department and charged with reckless driving, resisting arrest and assaulting an officer. A few of the hecklers threw eggs at the demonstrators.

[redacted] stated there were no other incidents in connection with the demonstration.

113th MI Group, Denver, has disseminated one of their Agents to attend SDS meetings at Denver University and Colorado University at Boulder, Colorado.

Denver is aware that additional coverage is necessary and every effort is being made to do so. The active SDS members have been suspended and it is too early to evaluate the potential for violence at Denver University during the coming year since school is out for the summer. It is not known if the suspended students will still be active when school commences in September; however, 11 students have been barred from the campus grounds.

The Denver Division is currently conducting an investigation on [REDACTED] under the Anti-Riot law (Denver file 176-1).

On September 25, 1964, [REDACTED] made Application for Certificate of Citizenship. His residence at that time was shown as [REDACTED], Colorado. This form shows that his father, [REDACTED] born February 8, 1910, Pulvi, Poland, was naturalized in United States District Court, Denver, December 10, 1956, under Certificate Number [REDACTED]. It shows that his mother, [REDACTED] born April 11, 1916, Warsaw, Poland, was naturalized in United States District Court, Denver, December 10, 1956, Certificate Number [REDACTED].

Certificate of Citizenship Number [REDACTED] was issued to [REDACTED], Denver, on October 15, 1964.

A person later identified as [REDACTED] burned a portion of a Selective Service Registration Certificate on October 16, 1967. After burning the certificate the subject said he intended to leave that part of the card bearing his signature intact in order to give "them" sufficient evidence of his deed. The subject replied, in answer to a question posed by a photographer, that his name was [REDACTED] that he was 20 years of age; that he resided at [REDACTED] and that he was a student at DU.

The United States Attorney's Office, Denver, Colorado, filed charges against [REDACTED] and on [REDACTED] 1968, United States District Judge William E. Doyle found [REDACTED] a youth offender and sentenced him to a maximum sentence under the Youth Corrections Act and ordered him to undergo a psychiatric examination, observation and study, and to be returned for final sentencing after 90 days.

On April 2, 1968, Dr. [REDACTED] Federal Youth Center, Englewood, Colorado, reported to the court that in his opinion subject did not have propensities for violence.

On April 2, 1968, Judge William E. Doyle released the subject on $1,000 unsecured bond with the condition that he seek psychiatric consultation and treatment.

In the [REDACTED], 1968, edition of the Denver Post, a Denver daily newspaper, appeared an article advising that Federal disorderly conduct charges were made against nine individuals including [REDACTED] for their conduct in connection with an anti-draft demonstration held April 18, 1968, at the New Custom House, Denver. The charges, all petty offenses, carry a maximum penalty of $50 fine and 30 days in jail on each conviction.

CAMPUS DISRUPTIVE ACTIVITIES

The April 30, 1968, issue of the "Rocky Mountain News," a daily morning newspaper at Denver, Colorado, reported that a group of students, calling themselves Students for Independence Now (SIN), planned a protest demonstration at the University of Denver (DU) and a sit-in at the Chancellor's office to protest a University policy prohibiting graduate students from running for election to student office. (John L. Walker was the graduate student desirous of running for the Student Senate).

It is further reported that a counter demonstration would be organized calling itself Interested Independents and Greeks of the University of Denver.

DN T-2, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that at approximately 9:00 a.m., April 30, 1968, a group of students walked into the office of the Registrar in the Administration Building of DU and sat on the floor and interrupted work of the Registrar's Office. The students wedged themselves between desks and in the aisles. They chanted statements such as, "We Shall Overcome," and "We Are Not Afraid." One student took over the operation of the telephone switchboard.

Wayne Littrell, Director of Security, DU, told those students that he was speaking for Chancellor Maurice Mitchell and he told them that if they continued to remain, they would be expelled from school.

Miss [REDACTED], advised the students were to consider themselves expelled from DU if they failed to leave the office. After some of the students left the office, Miss [REDACTED] told the remaining students that if they continued to remain in the office, they should consider themselves dismissed from DU effective immediately.

Mr. [REDACTED] then told the students that he would give them five minutes to leave the office or they would be arrested. Mr. [REDACTED] informed them that they were violating a city ordinance pertaining to trespass, loitering and annoyance of students and employees at an institution of learning.

Some of the students left the office. Then officers of the Denver Police Department told the remaining students that they were under arrest and advised that they were to be taken to the Denver Police Department. Some of the students walked and others were dragged by the policemen to patrol wagons and transported to the Denver Police Department.

DN T-3, who has furnished reliable information in the past, made available a list of names and addresses of forty individuals who were arrested and charged with violation of Denver ordinances 824.2, which prohibits loitering about a school, and 824.2 (1) and (2), which pertains to annoying students, employees and teachers around a school. Four of those arrested were [REDACTED] and [REDACTED]. DN T-3 advised the leaders of the above demonstration were the four individuals listed above.

DN T-1 advised that [REDACTED] were formerly members of the Denver Chapter of the SDS.

The May 28, 1968, issue of the "Rocky Mountain News," a Denver daily newspaper, reported that District Judge Neil Horan on Monday (May 27, 1968), issued a temporary restraining order against eleven student agitators at DU.

The order prohibited the eleven from damaging or destroying property, interfering with the control of buildings or grounds, normal business, and educational activities, other students and guests. The order will remain in effect until 8:00 a.m., June 6, 1968. Judge Horan set a hearing on a preliminary injunction at 9:00 a.m. on June 6. One of the individuals included is listed as [REDACTED] a Columbia University student, along with [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] DU, Denver, Colorado, complained May 25, 1968, that [REDACTED] from New York City, made inflammatory remarks on DU campus during week of May 20, 1968. [REDACTED] who identified himself as a member of SDS and member of the Student Strike Coordinating Committee, Columbia University, spoke at Colorado State University, Fort Collins, Colorado, May 14, 1968. He spoke at Colorado University, Boulder, Colorado, on May 16, 1968, wherein he reportedly said he was sent to Colorado and Montana by the Student Strike Committee of Columbia to clear up some myths about the strike and that he was given $50.00 for this trip. Subject spoke at DU May 21, 23 and 24, 1968, at which time he related his activities at Columbia and supported activities of DU students in connection with their protesting suspension of DU students who had participated in a sit-in at DU April 30, 1968. Subject quoted as making statements such as "Take over this University", "Baby, you've got to take power," "You've got no rights, baby," "You can protest but it ain't going to work," "This is your institution, baby. Let's take it. Let's bring down this University the way we did Columbia."

[REDACTED] Denver University, advised that Dr. [REDACTED] at DU, supported the DU SDS students; however, it appears his contract in the Department [REDACTED] will not be renewed for the fall term.

STUDENTS FOR A DEMOCRATIC SOCIETY

The Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), as it is known today, came into being at a founding convention held at Port Huron, Michigan, in June, 1962. The SDS is an association of young people on the left and has a current program of protesting the draft, promoting a campaign for youth to develop a conscientious objector status, denouncing United States intervention in the war in Vietnam and to "radically transform" the university community, and provide for its complete control by students. Gus Hall, General Secretary, Communist Party, USA, when interviewed by a representative of United Press International in San Francisco, California, on May 14, 1965, described the SDS as a part of the "responsible left" which the Party has "going for us." At the June, 1965, SDS National Convention, an anti-communist proviso was removed from the SDS constitution. In the October 7, 1966, issue of "New Left Notes," the official publication of SDS, an SDS spokesman stated that there are some communists in SDS and they are welcome. The national headquarters of this organization, as of April 18, 1967, was located in Room 206, 1608 West Madison Street, Chicago, Illinois.

ReBulet to Albany dated 5/23/68.

1) False Allegations of Police Brutality

On April 18, 1968, six University of Colorado (CU) Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) members were arrested during a demonstration at the New Custom House, 19th and Stout Streets, Denver, Colorado, which houses the Armed Forces Induction Center and various armed forces recruiting stations. There were approximately 100 persons in this demonstration. The police were called after the demonstrators refused to leave the building since they were disrupting Government business. The police, in order to remove these demonstrators, had to use the chemical Mace on three of the six arrested.

In the afternoon of April 18, 1968, approximately 75 individuals returned to picket at the New Custom House, protesting the alleged police brutality for the use of Mace and the ejection of the SDS demonstrators from the New Custom House that morning. The demonstrators then proceeded to the Denver Police Department where they again picketed. Signs were carried characterizing the Denver Police Department as "Armed and Dangerous."

According to an article in the [REDACTED] seven persons formally protested to [REDACTED] the use of the chemical Mace during the mentioned draft protests and called for its discontinuance and a public inquiry into its potential danger. One of the seven persons was [REDACTED]

Boulder, Colorado, physician who was sprayed with the chemical Mace. [REDACTED] denied creating a disturbance or resisting in any way during the incident and deemed the use of the chemical and arrests "unprovoked police violence." [REDACTED] told [REDACTED] that at no time did he hinder the induction of persons at the Induction Center. He said all incidents were totally unprovoked by "us." He said he was arrested when he returned to the building and asked for the badge number of two police officers who "had me flat on my back and totally helpless."

The article continued that [REDACTED] said that in the case of himself and two friends, the chemical was squirted in their faces from about six inches away. Twelve hours after the incident, he said, "Exhalation of my breath was irritating to the rest of the persons in the room where we were." In calling for an inquiry into the use of the chemical Mace, [REDACTED] said he had information that a California ophthalmologist recently had become concerned that the chemical might cause permanent corneal damage to the eye.

According to the newspaper article, other persons attending this hearing included Reverend [REDACTED] Colorado [REDACTED] and [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] who is free on bond awaiting federal action for draft refusal, and [REDACTED] of Denver.

[REDACTED] replied to this group that the chemical was adopted in lieu of night sticks to "knock the heads off recalcitrant persons" and then only in "perilous conditions where there is a threat of harm to our general public." He directed [REDACTED] to file a formal complaint with the Police Internal Affairs Bureau and assured everyone "We will consider your suggestions and your charges and resolve this matter as soon as possible."

2) Immorality

According to an article in the "Denver Post" dated February 15, 1968, a controversy arose at CU that week over whether birth control pills should be provided to unmarried CU coeds, 18 years or older, without a prior physical examination and whether single coeds are being discriminated against by the Student Health Center.

The article stated that the controversy began when the SDS opened a booth offering birth control pills available to anyone 18 years or older in the University Memorial Center on February 5, 1968. Although any girl 18 or older can obtain a prescription for the pill from a private physician, the SDS launched its campaign in opposition to the Wardenburg Student Health Center policy of giving the pill only to married women or to women having an affidavit stating the date they intended to marry.

According to the article, [REDACTED] does not perform or inquire any sort of a physical examination before issuing a prescription for the pill. [REDACTED] issued a letter of rebuttal which was published in an edition of the "Colorado Daily" published by CU. [REDACTED] said he gave his support to the SDS campaign because he wanted to show the coeds that anyone over 18 is legally entitled to the pills. "The whole question is unmarried sex," the physician maintained. "I believe that unmarried women should be treated the same as married women. The whole question of a physical is a smoke screen to obscure that issue."

3) Action by College Administrators

A source advised that at approximately 9:00 A.M., April 30, 1968, a group of students walked into the office of the Registrar in the Administration Building of DU and sat on the floor and interrupted work of the Registrar's office. The students wedged themselves between desks and in the aisles. They chanted statements such as, "We Shall Overcome," and "We Are Not Afraid." One student took over the operation of the telephone switchboard.

WAYNE LITTRELL, Director of Security, DU, told those students that he was speaking for Chancellor MAURICE MITCHELL and he told them that if they continued to remain, they would be expelled from school.

One student took over the operation of the telephone switchboard.

[REDACTED] DU, told those students that he was speaking for [REDACTED] and he told them that if they continued to remain, they would be expelled from school.

Miss [REDACTED], advised the students were to consider themselves expelled from DU if they failed to leave the office. After some of the students left the office, Miss [REDACTED] told the remaining students that if they continued to remain in the office, they should consider themselves dismissed from DU effective immediately.

Mr. [REDACTED] then told the students that he would give them five minutes to leave the office or they would be arrested. Mr. [REDACTED] informed them that they were violating a city ordinance pertaining to trespass, loitering and annoyance of students and employees at an institution of learning.

Some of the students left the office. Then officers of the Denver Police Department told the remaining students that they were under arrest and advised them that they were to be taken to the Denver Police Department. Some of the students walked and others were dragged by the policemen to patrol wagons and transported to the Denver Police Department.

A second source advised that the agitators or the leaders who directed the above demonstration were as follows:

A third source advised that [REDACTED] are presently or were formerly members of the Denver Chapter of the SDS.

The "Rocky Mountain News," a Denver daily newspaper, on [REDACTED] reported that following the arrests, about 200 students walked to the office of Mr. [REDACTED]. [REDACTED] is quoted as saying that the University had no alternative but to take the action it did. He said, "It is our opinion we owed it to the rest of the students, the faculty and the community. The 'door' is not closed to student freedom but the University will operate within the confines of law and order."

The newspaper reported that the expelled students have three days in which to appeal the action to the University Conduct Review Committee, if they wish; however, [REDACTED] said, "A student who is dismissed is not expected to return."

The newspaper further reported that those students who were charged and arrested were released to appear in court on May 7, 1968.

The newspaper also reported that one of the demonstrators, [REDACTED] was free on a $1,000 personal recognizance bond pending an appeal of his conviction in Federal District Court in March of burning his draft card during an anti-war demonstration on October 16, 1967. It reported that [REDACTED] had been released on bond by U. S. District Judge WILLIAM E. DOYLE on condition he seek psychiatric help.

250 students participated in the demonstration out of a student body of 8,000 students. The decision to call the police was made by [REDACTED]

Attached hereto are editorials that appeared in the "Rocky Mountain News" and "Denver Post" regarding [REDACTED] actions against the students.

According to an article in the "Rocky Mountain News" dated May 24, 1968, U. S. District Judge HATFIELD CHILSON rejected a request by three suspended DU students for a temporary restraining order against the University. The three were among 39 students suspended as a result of a sit-in demonstration April 30, 1968, in the Registrar's office at DU. They asked the court order to prevent the University from forcing the suspensions.

Judge CHILSON denied the request on the grounds the defendants were not given proper notice of the court action.

Named as defendants in the action were [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] of the DU Board of Trustees. The complaint asked that the students be reinstated to permit ten seniors to graduate on June 7, 1968, and the undergraduates involved to take final examinations. The complaint charged the actions of the University "are part and parcel of a pre-arranged scheme involving the use of city officials to deprive plaintiffs of due process of law and other constitutional rights." The complaint also charged the actions of the University Conduct Review Committee and the University were improper, failed to afford the students procedural due process and will irreparably injure and damage plaintiffs unless restrained.

Reverend [REDACTED] was mentioned in the daily newspapers as a supporter of the suspended students. Also supporting the students was Dr [REDACTED] at DU.

An article in the "Denver Post" dated May 9, 1968, showed that the American Association of University Professors at DU advised that the expulsion of the 39 students was too severe punishment and that suspension would have been more appropriate.

A Good Job, Chancellor Mitchell

THE ROCKY MOUNTAIN NEWS joins a substantial segment of Denver's citizenry in commending DU Chancellor Maurice Mitchell for the handling of an incipient campus rebellion this week.

We were pleased to note that an impressive group of students joined with the faculty and administration on the side of peace and education.

Denver police, called in before things were allowed to get out of hand, conducted themselves properly and effectively.

This was in sharp contrast to the disgraceful situation which has brought mighty Columbia University in New York City almost to a standstill for days.

Here the ridiculous and silly note was the one struck by the protesting students who forced officers to drag them across the floor.

AND WHAT WERE the 40 sit-in agitators — they call themselves Students for Independence Now (SIN) — demanding?

Squatting on the floor around the dean of students, Miss Barbara Mertz, the rebels borrowed the civil rights slogan of "We Shall Overcome" and the famed V salute of the late Winston Churchill. A little closer attention to their history books should have given them a little clearer interpretation of the meaning of the victory sign as a symbol of law and order.

Their demand, apparently, was that graduate students be eligible to serve in the Student Senate. They are not under the present constitution.

But whatever the merits of their student politics, obstruction and an invitation to violence strikes us as no legitimate method.

Miss Mertz, very properly, pointed out to the protestors that they had been warned against disruptive actions.

"In spite of such warnings, you have chosen to continue actions out of line with expectations. Therefore, you are to consider yourselves dismissed from the University of Denver, effective immediately," she told them.

Overlooked in these activities of revolt apparently is the basic fact that students go to college to advance their education. Their very enrollment is based on the proposition that the faculty and the institution has enough to give them to warrant the time — and expense.

HOW DO PROTESTING students justify — even to themselves — disruptive tactics, even strikes, against themselves and the educational programs for which they are devoting time and money?

If the students were ready to take over and run a university, there would seem to be little reason for them to waste time and money trying to learn from somebody else — especially somebody they believe it proper to coerce with force.

Fortunately, the vast majority of students at the University of Denver seem to realize this full well. The rest must be restrained from interfering with them.

DU Upholds the Essential Principle

IT WAS an instructive coincidence that on the same day Columbia University officials, after an arduous week of indecision, finally evicted student demonstrators from five university buildings; the University of Denver took the same sort of action to nip a similar sit-in demonstration in the bud.

Both actions are absolutely right in principle, but we particularly applaud the speed and decisiveness with which DU Chancellor Maurice Mitchell acted.

On the matter of principle, the recent spread of student sit-in demonstrations to campuses across the nation is clear proof that many colleges need urgently to reassert the essential principle that underlies all democratic societies and any just, orderly and rational community.

This is that every man's freedom is limited by the freedom of his neighbor; that no man's rights include the right to infringe upon the rights of his neighbor.

Put in a college context, this means simply that students have a full right to protest any condition in the college or in the world which they deem unjust, and they have a right to work energetically to change those conditions by every orderly and rational process.

But these rights to free expression of opinion and to freedom of action have limits. These limits are the equal rights of their academic neighbors — instructors, administrators and fellow students — to equal freedom of peaceful expression and action. And those limits are pretty clearly spelled out by the rules and laws of society and the university.

Students, to be specific, have the right to parade and picket and demonstrate. They clearly do not have the right to seize college buildings or forcefully occupy offices.

And there is a corollary to this basic principle as it applies to students. That is that since the orderly and rational approach to problem-solving is vital to any academic community, that community has both the right and the duty to expel or bar from its midst anyone who refuses to respect the rights of all.

We have been surprised in recent weeks that so many college students—though, granted they are relatively few—could be so ignorant of these elementary rules of any free and democratic society. It has been ironic that some of the worst offenders against academic freedom have been members of a student group which proclaims in its name a dedication to a democratic society.

We have watched events at Columbia in particular with admiration for the restraint of its president, Grayson Kirk, but a troubled feeling that his restraint was contributing to the irrationality that plagued his campus, rather than reducing it.

Now he has been forced to solve the university's problems by meeting student force with superior police force. That, let us note, is only fair, but still regrettable; more than 100 students were injured in the eviction process.

SO WE are pleased indeed that at DU Chancellor Mitchell's swift decisiveness prevented both injuries and interruption of the school activities. That is a much more humane way to go. Also the educational lesson—that a good university insists upon peaceful dissent, and equal rights for all—is bound to be much clearer at DU than at Columbia.

We are sure most citizens — and students — will join us in congratulations to Chancellor Mitchell.

The Suspensions at DU

THE UNIVERSITY OF DENVER, while tempering its initial expulsion order, has made it clear that it means business in dealing with obstructive sit-in demonstrations on the campus.

The 29 students involved in the punishment for the April 30 outbreak are to be suspended for a year — until the 1969 summer quarter — and then be re-admitted, if they are, on probation and under strict conditions of conduct.

The punishment seems to us fair and reasonable. It should also be effective in establishing orderly process at the University of Denver.

We hope other institutions plagued by unruly mobs will benefit from the prompt and effective steps taken here under direction of Chancellor Maurice Mitchell.

ReBuLet to Albany 5/10/68.

The only active New Left in the Denver Division to this date appears to be the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), operating out of the University of Colorado (CU), Boulder, Colorado, and a small contingent at the University of Denver (DU), Denver, Colorado. Two of the key activists with SDS at CU are [REDACTED] and [REDACTED]; however, both were suspended from the university in 1967, along with other SDS members, for conducting a sit-in and blocking the entrance at the University where the CIA was recruiting. Since then both individuals have been active in anti-Vietnam war demonstrations at the Armed Forces Induction Center at the New Custom House, Denver, Colorado, and have passed out literature calling for inductees to resist the draft. Xerox copies of this literature are attached. It should be noted that persons desiring further information should contact [REDACTED] and [REDACTED], as well as [REDACTED] member of the Denver Chapter of the Resistance, sponsored by SDS; [REDACTED] SDS member; [REDACTED] described as [REDACTED] and American Friends Service Committee.

Because of the type of people who are members of the SDS, mainly the "hippie" type, it would be difficult to expose, disrupt, or neutralize their activities, such as an arrest for possession of marijuana or arrests regarding demonstrations against the Vietnam war or University administrations, etc., because this type of person thrives on such adverse publicity and the ordinary citizen is complacent to their activities since they are not directly involved. Therefore, the only way to arouse this complacency is to have the devious maneuvers of the SDS exposed to public scrutiny by raising the ire of these citizens against such an organization.

It appears that one of the ways this can be done is through sympathy to individuals who have suffered because of the Vietnam war, which the SDS openly flouts.

No!!!
The Denver Division suggests that names of the parents of the servicemen killed in Vietnam be obtained through the local newspapers. Copies of the literature distributed by SDS could be exactly duplicated through the FBI Laboratory and a cover letter attached. The cover letter, using approximately the same wordage of the literature, could express condolences for the recent family tragedy of losing a son through an immoral war perpetrated by the present Administration. Copies of the above literature would be attached and explained to the parent that in the event there is another draft-age son in the family or if they have any friends or relatives of draft age, the enclosed literature may be of assistance to them so that they may avoid the parents' recent tragedy, which the parent would not want anyone else to go through.

The parents, in their grief, would indirectly and unknown to them assist the Bureau and raise the ire of the complacent citizen as there would undoubtedly be adverse publicity when the parents complained to the newspapers.

This disruptive technique could be carried out with the maximum of security since the letters would be mailed at Boulder, Colorado, and the Denver Division would not have to be in contact with any news media.

// The Bureau's comments are requested, expounding on the above counterintelligence program.

It is realized that such a technique is playing on the family grief, but they cannot be any further grieved because of the loss of their son. They would become aroused and through them, the true purpose of the SDS could be exposed.

You are here today for one of three reasons:

1. to enlist
2. to be inducted
3. for a pre-induction physical

Here are some things you should know:

1. If you take the oath and become a member of the Armed Forces, you give up all your rights as a citizen. The Armed Forces has its own rules that deprive you of free speech, freedom of movement and legal protection. Ask the men inside about this.

2. If you are black or brown, the chances of your being killed in Vietnam are much greater than they would be if you were white. Why should you die in a white man's war? Your fight is at home protecting your family from the police.

3. You do not have to sign the security statement they give you inside. What you do with your life is none of their business. If they really want to know more about you, let them find out for themselves. Anything you tell them will be used against you, so be careful about what you say.

4. If you do not want to be drafted, there are lawyers and other people ready to help you.
